

DEATH

ROLL NOT REDUCED BY LATER REPORTS

ORIGIN OF THE STEAMER FIRE IS NOT DEFINITELY KNOWN.

Capt. Phillips Testifies That It May Have Been Started by an Electric Wire.

Cairo, Ill., April 22.—After searching two days the death roll of the burned steamer City of Pittsburgh has not been reduced any from the first reports. Of the 145 people on the boat when it burned about half are missing and no further hope is expressed for them. The books and valuables of the boat crew and passengers are still in the ruins. The wreck is above water and still smoldering.

"At the coroner's inquest over the bodies of Captain Sylvester Doss and Miss Maria Tissium, a verdict was rendered that the former came to his death from exhaustion and the latter from inhaling smoke, and nothing was developed as to the origin, cause or responsibility for the disaster.

Captain Phillips testified that he could not account for the origin of the fire, unless an electric wire had started it. He stated that so far as he knew there were 56 lives lost.

Sensational reports have been circulated about an alleged quarrel between the officers of the steamer and the roustabouts, and that the fire may have been of incendiary origin, but no credence is given to these reports.

A New Trust.

Dayton, O., April 22.—Announcement is made here that the paper box makers' combine has been practically formed and that only a few details remain to be closed. Thirty three concerns and four others will probably enter the trust. The capital will be $9,000,000.

CEDAR HILL CEMETERY BOARD

ORGANIZED BY ELECTING MR. ANDREGG PRESIDENT.

Two Hundred and Forty-Nine Interments Made Last Year—Nineteen Lots Under Perpetual Care.

The trustees of Cedar Hill cemetery met in the new office at Cedar Hill cemetery Monday. The old board consisting of S B Fristoe, W J Henderson and Jasper M Keckley, received the reports of the clerk, treasurer and superintendent for the year ending on March 31, 1902, and after disposing of all unfinished business adjourned sine die.

The new board of trustees, W. J. Henderson, S B Fristoe and member-elect Noah Andregg then organized for the ensuing year by electing Noah Andregg president, S B Fristoe clerk and W J Henderson treasurer.

After the organization of the board the selection of a superintendent being next in order George Van Atta was appointed.

The Advocate learns from the report of the superintendent that there were 249 interments in Cedar Hill cemetery during the past year, six of which were re-interments, the bodies having been previously buried in other cemeteries. Eleven monuments were erected and 129 markers or headstones. There are now 19 lots under perpetual care. The owners of these lots have deposited a sum of money with the trustees, which money the trustees have invested as the law directs, and the interest or income derived therefrom is used to keep in good order and repair the lots designated by those who have deposited the money.

AGREE

ON THE MINORITY PHILIPPINE BILL

DEMOCRATS HELD A CAUCUS ON MONDAY NIGHT.

Unanimous Action Taken—Committee Appointed to Confer With Senators About Differences.

Washington, April 22.—The Democrats of the House of Representatives held a caucus last night to consider the Philippine civil government bill, agreed on by the Democratic members of the insular committee. The caucus lasted until shortly before midnight, when a resolution by Representative Jones approving the minority bill and requesting the Democratic members on the insular committee to confer with Democratic senators in order to reconcile any differences existing as to the details of a Philippine measure, with a view to reaching an agreement upon one bill to be urged in both branches of Congress.

Before the adoption of this resolution the Democratic members of the insular committee explained the terms of the four separate Philippine measures now proposed. The Republican bill in the Senate provides a temporary form of civil government, in effect continuing the present system. The Republican House bill proposes a complete form of civil government, with a Philippine Legislature. The Democratic bills, both in the Senate and House, look to ultimate independence of the islands, but the House measure goes more in detail on the period preceding independence, fixing July 4, 1911, as the date for complete insular independence.

It is with a view to reconciling the details of the two Democratic measures that the resolutions were adopted tonight. Speeches were made in support of the resolution by Messrs. Jones, of Virginia; Williams of Mississippi, and Ganes of Tennessee.

A Serial Story.

Mansfield, O., April 22.—The Waltman-Hopkins elopement, which resulted in the marriage here of Dr. Percy Waltman and Miss Lula Hopkins, of Birmingham, four days after the doctor got a divorce at Sandusky, has developed into a serial story. The latest chapter is that Constable Philip Dietrich of Sandusky, was here with a warrant for Waltman's arrest for forcing from his first wife two $500 checks. The charge is that Waltman threatened the woman's life if she refused to give up the papers. The bride and groom left here Thursday and have not been seen or heard from. Waltman is also charged with taking a horse and buggy.

SHERIFF

GIVES A LITTLE SENSATIONAL TESTIMONY.

HOWARD'S RIFLE KILLED GOEBEL.

Broughton Tells of Accompanying Berry Howard to Frankfort to See Taylor Seated.

Frankfort, Ky., April 22.—The most sensational testimony given in the trial of Berry Howard, charged with complicity in the murder of Governor Goebel, is that of Sheriff Broughton of Bell county. Broughton told of accompanying Berry Howard to Frankfort to see Taylor seated, and then in answer to the question whether he had talked to Caleb Powers after his arrival he said:

"I heard him taking with my brother. He asked my brother who would be a good man to do the shooting. They had been speaking of the Goebel contest."

"Was the name of either Frank Cecil or Zach Steele mentioned in that conversation?"

"Yes, sir; my brother suggested their names in answer to Powers' question for a good man to do the killing."

"Did you ever have any other conversation with Powers?"

"Yes, sir; I talked with him on the train at Barboursville. He pinned a badge on my coat and told me that Taylor had ordered the mountain men here to help him keep his seat."

"Did you talk with him at any other time?"

"Yes, sir. On the morning the mountain men came here Powers asked me to let him know when Goebel came on the grounds."

"Did you ever have a conversation with Berry Howard after he came back from Frankfort after the shooting?"

"I met him at Jack Asher's lumber camp office. He got after me for leaving Frankfort. On the day I arrived there. I told him my wife objected to my staying. He said he never asked his wife. He had a rifle in his hands. During the conversation he said: 'This is the gun that killed the gobble.'"

Berry Howard was brought into court this morning, accompanied by his wife. The state closed its evidence yesterday and this morning a motion for peremptory instructions was overruled. Colonel Colson made the opening statement for the defense.

"We grant," he said, "that Senator Goebel was murdered as the result of a conspiracy, that the shot was fired from the Secretary of State's office, and that the ball extracted from the hackberry tree was the one that killed Goebel. We deprecate the murder as much as does the commonwealth, but we deny that the defendant took any part in the conspiracy or had any part in the murder."

He said proof would be produced to show that Howard came here to obtain a pardon for his nephew, John B. Howard, and was not brought here with the mountain men. Howard, he said, was in the lobby of the house when the shooting occurred.

OF REV. DR. TALMAGE LEAVES $300,000

TO BE DIVIDED AMONG MINISTER'S FAMILY.

Widow Receives One-Third of the Estate—List of the Heirs—Real Estate $50,000.

Washington, April 22.—The will of the late Rev. Dr. T. DeWitt Talmage has been filed here. It leaves an estate valued at more than $300,000, of which $250,000 is in personal property, consisting of secured notes, United States four per cent bonds, stock and cash in bank, furniture, pictures and household effects.

The real estate is worth about $50,000, comprising his house on Massachusetts avenue, in this city, and property in Easthampton, Long Island, and in his former home, Brooklyn.

The Washington Loan and Trust company named as executor, petitioned the district court to admit the will to probate. All the heirs at law are said to be entirely satisfied and have consented to the probate. The will gives "the widow's third" to Mrs. Talmage and the remainder share and share alike equally to all of the children and their lineal descendants. The will is dated February 3, 1898. The heirs at law are as follows:

The widow Mrs. Eleanor T. Talmage of this city, and his children, Mrs. Jessie T. Smith and Mrs. Mary Mangum, both of Brooklyn; Mrs. Edith T. Donnan, Richmond, Va.; Frank DeWitt Talmage, Chicago; Miss Jennie G. Talmage, of this city, and Mrs. Maude T. Wickoff of Cape Vincent, N. Y.

Dr. Talmage's widow, his son, Frank DeWitt Talmage, of Chicago, and Dr. Louis Klopfesch of Brooklyn, are appointed literary trustees under a codicil dated March 15, 1901. The will sets aside $1000 to the Greenwood Cemetery company of Brooklyn for caring for his lots. The will gives to the son Frank, all the books, manuscripts and copyrights, thereon now or hereafter secured, in trust to superintend, manage and control their printing, publishing and sale, and gives his son exclusive control of all contracts exchange at the time of the testator's death relating to all literary work with full and unrestricted authority to fulfill and enforce them for the benefit of the estate.

The gold enameled tea service presented to Dr. Talmage by the emperor of Russia is given to the widow and at her death to the eldest surviving child then to the next oldest and so on, and finally goes absolutely to the last survivor among the children. The rest of the estate, both real and personal, is bequeathed as follows:

One-third share to the widow, her heirs and assigns absolutely, and the remaining two-thirds to all of his children equally, share and share alike, the lineal descendants of any deceased child to take the parent's portion.

DISTRESS

INCREASES AS THE PRICES OF MEAT ADVANCE

ANOTHER UPWARD JUMP IS EXPECTED TOMORROW

On Fine Loins and Ribs at Chicago. Retailers Fear No Immediate Relief is in Sight.

Chicago, April 22.—Contrary to the predictions of retailers that the packers would not order another increase in the price on dressed meat, they were required to pay an advance of from 1-4 to 1-2 cent when they called at packing houses to get their usual supplies. A meeting of hotel keepers and restaurateurs who are unable to pay operating expenses is proposed for the purpose of boycotting members of the alleged trust.

A twenty per cent increase on the fine loins and ribs used by the leading hotels will be made tomorrow.

Prices on hotel and restaurant menus have advanced and in many lunch dooms beans and vegetables are substituted for meats.

The retailers fear there will be no relief until grass cattle come into the market during June.

MEATS IN NEW YORK.

New York, April 22.—New York has felt another increase in the price on meats and the distress in the poorer sections of the city grows. Mutton and lamb rose to higher figures than they had brought for years. Pork was nearly 2 cents up; lamb advanced 1 1-2 cts and veal 1 1-2 cts. a pound.

SHOCK

IS FOLLOWED BY FIRE DEAD NUMBERING 500.

TWO TOWNS ARE DESTROYED BY EARTHQUAKES.

The Whole Country is Panic Stricken. Visitation Was Spectacular in Character.

Panama, Colombia, via Galveston, Texas, April 22.—Dispatches from Guatemala are to the effect that the whole republic was shaken by earthquakes from 8 30 o'clock on Friday night up to 8 o'clock Sunday night, with only short intervals between the shocks.

The dispatches of Saturday concerning the disaster in Quetzaltenango are confirmed. It is estimated that 500 persons were killed and millions of dollars worth of property destroyed there. Fires which followed the earlier shocks added to the loss, and many heart rending stories of suffering are received. The whole country is panic stricken.

The towns of Patzún and Mazatenango, the latter in the great coffee district, were destroyed. The visitation was spectacular in character. The first shocks were accompanied by terrific thunder storms. The lightning was followed by a deluge of rain which will long be remembered by those who witnessed the awesome sight.

Trade With Canada.

A report from Consul Bittinger, at Montreal, published by our government, points out the short-sightedness of our tariff policy in reference to the Dominion. He addresses his government at Washington very frankly in the matter. Calling attention to the fact that Canada is now a better customer of the United States than all of South America, than all of Asia and Oceania and than any single nation in the world excepting only Great Britain and Germany, he goes on to say:

"Our present tariff policy toward Canada causes the building up of great manufacturing interests to compete with our own. If we seek trade in other countries we must not give them the opportunity to sell some of their products to us. Canada wants to send to the United States her lumber, wood pulp, hay, barley and minerals. The United States consumes more lumber and paper than any other nation in the world, and she should be glad to admit lumber and wood pulp free."

But that would not suit the paper trust, although it is what all the newspapers and publishers in the United States are petitioning for. In some respects we are crazy on the idea of protection. We put a tax on intelligence to meet the greedy demands of a trust controlling paper and pulp.

The Republicans in Congress have found the load too heavy to carry, and have decided to shelve the ship subsidy bill recently passed by the Senate. Two plans are proposed. One is to allow the bill to die quietly, and the other is to report it back with a motion to proceed to its consideration in December next. The result of either plan will be the same. As the subsidy bill will not be considered at this session, and that means practically that it will not be passed by the present Congress, as the second session, which meets the first Monday in December next, will expire by operation of law the fourth day of March next, leaving but three months, including Sundays, Christmas holidays and the numerous other days when Congress will not be in session. The impending congressional elections is believed to be one cause for lightening ship and revising a bad record.

The latest summing up of the cost of the Boer war, with a "bread tax" impending and an increase of the income tax, by the chancellor of the exchequer, is not likely to rest easy on the financial stomach of the British people. By the chancellor's own figures the war has already cost $825,170,000; the coming year will add $225,000,000, besides $92,000,000 for gratuities to the soldiers and for bringing them home—if they can be brought home so soon. Englishmen estimate the indirect cost at $150,000,000 and the Boer peace proposals may call for another $50,000,000 for restocking farms, etc. Altogether there will be a total of not less than $1,340,000,000, and it is certainly the most expensive war in British annals.

American farmer in the corn belt worse than a drouth. The estimate is that the American producer will be compelled by the course of trade to pay at least one-half the war tax levied on breadstuffs sent to England. It is also alleged that there is something behind the tax, and that it is to form the basis of differential duties favoring the British colonies, which are clamorous for favors of the kind, which were not possible because England imposed no customs taxes on breadstuffs.

A LESSON IN COURAGE

(Original)
One evening while a party of students in one of our large universities were at supper the conversation turned upon courage. McCracken, who took great interest in military matters and was a lieutenant in a militia regiment, averred that unless a man were constitutionally cowardly he would not feel fear under any circumstances. Scovill, who belonged to that class, the sophomore, whose members consider it an inherited duty to keep the college in an uproar, declared that discretion was the better part of valor and if a man got into a tight fix it was better for him to yield gracefully than to fight senselessly.

"That's nothing less than cowardice," said McCracken.
"Then we would all better be cowards at times," replied Scovill. "If a man were to send me word that he was going to shoot me on sight, I'd send back word that I hoped he would not see me."

"I should tell him that I would be prepared for him," said McCracken.
"Do you mean to say," pursued Scovill, "that if you cringed to a man who had the drop on you you would be a coward?"

"That's my conviction," said the other, twirling a young mustache resolutely.
"Then you'll prove yourself a coward some day, you may bet your boots."

"That remains to be seen."
With this the speaker left the party to go to the regular Wednesday evening drill at the armory.

"I tell you what, fellows," said Scovill, "I have a mind to prove Mack a coward on his own theory."

"Try it," said several students. "We'll give you a supper if you succeed."
"Very well," replied Scovill. "I'll do it."

"When?"
"As to that I'll let you know hereafter. In the meantime I'll do a job of thinking on it."

In the university grounds was an old plaster cast of Washington that had been there from time immemorial. In going from his room to the armory McCracken was obliged to pass this statue. One Wednesday evening between dusk and darkness he was hurrying over his accustomed walk, for he was a trifle behind time, when he came face to face with the statue standing silent and rigid in the waning light. Suddenly the Father of his Country, in a tone that was evidently meant to be obeyed, called "Halt!" At the same time the right arm was raised from the side, a revolver grasped in the hand.

McCracken stood still as suddenly as if he had run up against a stone wall. "Throw up your hands!"
The order was obeyed with alacrity. "Right face!"

By this time McCracken's equipage had somewhat reassured itself, and he did not obey the order. A bullet sang disagreeably near his ear. Not taking note of the fact that the bullet passed quicker than he could act, he involuntarily ducked.

"Right face!"
This time the lieutenant turned on his heels without waiting for another bullet, which might possibly hit him. "Forward, march! Halt! About face! To the rear, march! Halt! Front face!"

The lieutenant obeyed these orders with minute exactness. Once during the drill, thinking that it might be a student's joke, he again stood still when ordered to march, but another bullet, coming closer than the first, admonished him that if a joke it was a serious one. It was certainly amusing, this drilling of an officer of the national guard by the statue of General George Washington, but McCracken saw nothing in it to move his risible muscles in the slightest degree. Indeed he was quaking lest he should make some blunder and the general shoot him down on the spot. Finally the drillmaster directed the lieutenant to stoop and perform the "ducks' march," which he did, not daring to lower his hands. There was a snicker behind a bush, another behind a tree, which, acting like a lighted fuse on gunpowder, brought about an explosion of laughter from every surrounding hiding place. Then the general's threatening arm fell to its proper place and Scovill stepped down from behind the statue. At the same time a dozen students emerged from behind trees, bushes and other available screens.

"Well, Mack, what do you think of your theory now?" asked Scovill.
"I think my theory is all rot."

"I'm glad of that. We don't want to consider you a coward. Any of us would have obeyed under similar circumstances."

"But how did you work the statue?" asked McCracken.
"This white stone was all that was needed," and Scovill pulled off a cotton sleeve cut the same shape as the general's Continental uniform coat.

"Fogs meet me at the Beefsteak after drill, and I'll blow you off to a supper."

"That's provided for, but we'll be there."

That night a private room at the Beefsteak rang with "Confe, landlord, fill the flowing bowl!" and other soul stirring songs. McCracken was the merriest of the party. He had been taught a lesson, but to learn lessons, not only from books, but from association, was what he was at college for. He is now with the army in the Philippines, doing good service.

BIG CIRCUS COMING

The Great Wallace Big Amusement Enterprise Will Exhibit in Newark on May 3rd.

The forerunners of the Great Wallace show have made numerous preparations for the coming of that show to Newark on Saturday, May 3.

From now until that date a large portion of our juvenile citizens, with the same proportion of the older ones will be anticipating with much satisfaction the promised visit of the Wallace show. In front of the circus ring and in the presence of the sawdust and action, and within the hearing of a great symphony band, politics are laid aside, creeds are shelved, cares are shifted and kings and queens of society and of business affairs touch elbows with the professional and laboring man. A big circus like the Wallace show brings all kinds of people on a level, for one day at least.

The time was, when people did not study closely the advertising of a circus. This has been changed. During the interim between today and the date of exhibition here every piece of advertising of the Great Wallace Show and every announcement it may make will be closely read, and the readers will not feel as if they are reading fiction or bad promises, but will treat the matter as pertaining to the Wallace Circus as a matter of news and information, as it is universally known that the Great Wallace Circus produces all it advertises, and instead of advertising more than it has, it is reputed to produce more than it advertises.

It is with pleasure that we announce the early visit of a show of the magnitude and the character of the Great Wallace shows to be in Newark on Saturday, May 3.

The House Mother.
The good mother who looketh well to the ways of her household must not only be a good cook, but a good caterer. She must know how to purchase food so that it will be the most economical and the best in its season, and she must know how to cook it so that there will be the least waste of food value. She must provide food suitable to the physical needs of each of her family, individually as well as collectively. It is no small task that the provider of food for the household undertakes.

The more refined the type of the individual the more careful he must be in the selection of his food. Only the grossest and lowest animals eat whatever is given them. There is more animalism in eating with satisfaction a heavy dinner of many courses, badly cooked and second rate in quality, and imagining because it is elaborate you have dined well than there is in that fastidiousness in regard to food which the epicure shows. The term epicure should not be one of reproach, yet it often is, even to those who should remember there is only one animal in the farmyard who does not select his food, but eats promiscuously whatever is thrown to him.

There is a certain class of housekeepers who seem to think their families should be served in regard to food with no greater care than the poor pig. They boast that they "eat to live." The highest and most intellectual life requires a body in the most perfect physical condition. The food must meet the requirements of the body. Badly cooked and badly selected food causes the great majority of ills to which human nature is heir. Most diseases may be traced back to malnutrition or the consumption of food which has failed to do its duty as food.—New York Tribune.

Ingenious Handle.
Something rather ingenious in the way of a detachable dipper handle is the invention of Jesse Carpenter of Muncie, Ind. It is made of a single piece of wire which is so bent as to form a sort of spring loop. With its aid empty cylindrical cans may be utilized for dippers or even for cooking vessels, and such cans, which are generally regarded as useless, may thus be made to serve useful purposes. While the loop holds the receptacle in a tight grip, a couple of elbows may be bending the two ends of it assist in making the grasp secure, these being inserted beneath the edges of the can.

For Porch and Den.
A good filling for pillows designed for porch use is made by cutting excelsior very fine. Chicken feathers mixed with small bits of cotton make a good filling for sofa pillows. The cotton fills the feathers from packing. The silky substance found in the pod of the milkweed also makes an excellent filling for these cushions. This may be kept light and downy by an occasional warming and shaking.

Carriage scrub is being utilized for drapery purposes by artistic people on account of its effectiveness and its cheapness. It is to be had in shops where carriage furnishings are sold. In a soft shade of brown this material has been employed for drapery purposes in a "den" in a local home. The curtains are edged with large turquoise blue bands sewed on about an inch apart. At the sides is a border of drawn work.

Summer Pillows.
It is easy to rip the side seams of a delicate or gorgeous pillow covering and carefully pull the pillow through the opening. Shake the dust from the elaborate cases and lay them away where neither flies nor sun nor rust can find them. The cost is very small of material which in summer is grateful to the touch and inviting to the eye, and it is little trouble to sew up squares or oblongs to fit your pillows and surely appreciation of such cushions, so quiet in color and cool to the touch, will be expressed by their popularity. The best material for this purpose is the linen which is commonly used for furniture covering. Remember that in warm weather more comfort is to be had from a pillow which is not too soft. So make your summer coverings quite a bit smaller than the down pillows.

A Nice Vegetable Stew.
To make a nice vegetable stew pick and wash very clean as much spinach as will make a dish, mince finely three small onions, pick and chop two handfuls of parsley, put all into a saucepan, with rather more than half a pint of gravy, a bit of butter dusted with flour, a little salt and pepper, cover the pan closely, stir it now and then and when the spinach is tender mash smooth. Serve it with slices of broiled ham or with sausages.

In a Carefully Prepared Article Recommends Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.

In a recent issue of the New York Magazine of Sanitation and Hygiene, the recognized authority on all matters pertaining to health, James H. Montgomery, M. D., says editorially:

"After a careful investigation of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, a specific for kidney, liver and bladder troubles, rheumatism, dyspepsia and constipation with the attendant ill, we are free to confess that a more meritorious medicine has never come under the examination of the chemical and medical experts of the New York Magazine of Sanitation and Hygiene. In fact, after the most searching tests and rigid inquiry into the record of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, it becomes a duty to recommend its use in unequivocal terms to every reader of this journal whose complaint comes within the list of ailments which this remedy is advertised to cure. We have obtained such overwhelming proof of the efficacy of this specific—have so satisfactorily demonstrated its curative powers through personal experiments—that a care for the interests of our readers lead us to call attention to its great value."

NO SESSION OF COMMON PLEAS

Contested Election Case in the Probate Court.

Results in Favor of Moses James—Real Estate Transfers—News of the Courts.

There was no business in the Common Pleas Court today. Judge Seward will hold court tomorrow.

In James' Favor.
In the matter of the contest of La Fayette Bryant of the election of Moses Jones, for Marshal of the village of Granville, the case was tried in the Probate Court Tuesday morning. The jury found the facts against La Fayette Bryant; that he did not receive a majority of the legal votes cast at the election. The jury also found that those electors voting for Moses Jones intended to vote for Moses James, and thereupon decided that La Fayette Bryant was not elected Marshal of Granville and that Moses James was elected Marshal of the village at the April election.

Left the Asylum.
Probate Judge Waldo Taylor has been notified by Superintendent E. G. Carpenter of Columbus State Hospital that Charles Condit of Licking county, an inmate of the institution, had left the institution on April 2. Also that Daniel Griffith had been discharged from the institution on April 10.

A RIVER OF LAND.

Astonishing Amount of Earth That Flows Down the Mississippi.

"The capacity of the Mississippi for filling up canals and old channels is something awful," says John Swain in Alsace's. "Government engineers have found that the amount of solid matter annually carried past Vicksburg in suspension is enough to make a block of earth 300 feet high and a mile square. Fifty feet off the top of this is spread around on the valley between here and the sea, and the rest goes out into the gulf of Mexico to build up more continent."

"Think what that means. Instead of a river of water this is a river of land. It would make a solid stream of earth five feet deep and nine feet wide, flowing night and day as fast as a man can walk, four miles an hour, all sliding down off the northern half of the country toward the sea. Year in, year out, that endless line of earth goes on. It would take a force of more than 50,000 men working in eight hour shifts to throw the dirt into the stream, supposing the river bed were rigid and an inexhaustible supply of dirt on the bank. It would make 25,000,000 wagon loads every year."

"But here—what are the use of such figures? Below Vicksburg—and above it, too, to an extent—we have the earth itself to speak for it. Except for the occasional fragments of the line of bluffs along the eastern edge below here which bob up at Fort Adams, at Natchez, at Grand Gulf, at Baton Rouge, at Fort Hudson, there is nothing about the level of the high water river except the artificial levees. These are in places miles back, great earthen banks, sometimes thirty feet high or more, sodded and free from trees, which protect the wonderfully fertile region behind them."

"And all this level country which the river overflows and fertilizes is constantly increased by this river of dirt which the Mississippi brings down from the inner region, gathered all the way from the Rockies to the Alleghenies. Sometimes the river starts to eat away this land that it has made. In a single summer, if it will, it eats away half a mile of it out of some bend. It cuts it out sometimes an acre at a bite and takes with it forests, houses, levees and all else."

"The river is not a uniformly moving stream. One side or the middle moves swiftly; the other parts are still or sluggish. Sometimes even these run up stream. The swift part is the channel current and runs in the deepest sections. It makes crossings whenever driven off shore by a promontory. These crossings are dumping places for the surplus earth the river has picked up in the bend it is eating."

One of Field's Crazy Jokes.

In his biography of Eugene Field Slason Thompson says that shortly after the humorist's arrival in Chicago it occurred to him one bleak day in December that it was time the people knew there was a stranger in town.

So he arrayed himself in a long linen duster, buttoned up from knees to collar, put an old straw hat on his head and, taking a shabby book under one arm and a pail full of mud in his hand, he marched all the way down Clark street, past the city hall, to the office. Everywhere along the route he was greeted with jeers or pitying words, as his appearance excited the mirth or commiseration of the passersby.

When he reached the entrance to The Daily News office, he was followed by a motley crowd of noisy urchins, whom he dismissed with a grimace and the cabalistic gesture with which Nicholas Kooran perplexed and repulsed Antony van Corlear from the battlement of the fortress on Rensselaersstein. Then, closing the door in their astonished faces, he mounted the two flights of stairs to the editorial rooms, where he recounted, with the glee of the boy he was in such things, the success of his joke.

Praise of Work Well Done.

Perhaps there is nothing else so productive of cheerful, helpful service as the expression of approval or praise of work well done, and yet there is nothing so grudgingly, so meagerly given by employers. Many of them seem to think that commendation is demoralizing and that the voice of appreciation will lead to listlessness and the withdrawal of energy and interest. This evinces but a poor knowledge of human nature, which is always hungry for approbation. But how mistaken such views are is shown by the loyal and unstinted service given to those larger minded men who treat their employees as members of a family committed to their care.—Success.

Her Consolation.

At a confirmation at Strassburg the bishop asked of a pretty debutante the usual question of the Heidelberg catechism:

"What is your only consolation in life and death?"
The neophyte blushed and hesitated. The first question was repeated, and then she stammered out:
"The young shoemaker in the next street."—London Tit-Bits.

Wise at Last.

Stockton Bonds—Poor Lambie! He never could get on the right side of the market.

Catten Kepwons—Oh, but he has been for the last three months or so. Stockton Bonds—Really? What? Catten Kepwons—The outside. He's quit.—Philadelphia Press.

Adding the Members.

"Brother Highmore, are you contributing anything for the benefit of the beaten this year?"

"Yes, sir. I am having my washing done at a Chinese laundry."—Chicago Tribune.

Four Wells Being Drilled, Stakes Set for Six—Infirmary House Cleaning—County News.

Hebron, O., April 22.—Dr. J. G. Bower on Monday visited Alonzo Sands of Hebron, who was so terribly burned Sunday, and found him resting comparatively easily. The people of Burlington township are not boastful. We only have fourteen wells in our township, all producers, but we have men drilling at the present time at four wells and stakes driven for six other wells, all in Burlington township, one in the village limits and several within one mile of town, which, when completed, made just twenty-four wells in Burlington township. Where is the "City of Utica" gas field?

The question as to who will be manager of the Mammoth cave property will be settled finally in June, says the Kansas City Star. If a decision favorable to a majority of the trustees, who want W. Trade With Canada.

A report from Consul Bittlingor, at Montreal, published by our government, points out the short sightedness of our tariff policy in reference to the Dominion. He addresses his government at Washington very frankly in the matter. Calling attention to the fact that Canada is now a better customer of the United States than all of South America, than all of Asia and Oceania and than any single nation in the world excepting only Great Britain and Germany, he goes on to say:

"Our present tariff policy toward Canada causes the building up of great manufacturing interests to compete with our own. If we seek trade in other countries we must not deny them the opportunity to sell some of their products to us. Canada wants to send to the United States her lumber, wood pulp, hay, barley and minerals. The United States consumes more lumber and paper than any other nation in the world, and she should be glad to admit lumber and wood pulp free."

But that would not suit the paper trust, although it is what all the newspapers and publishers in the United States are petitioning for. In some respects we are crazy on the idea of protection. We put a tax on intelligence to meet the greedy demands of a trust controlling paper and pulp.

The Republicans in Congress have found the load too heavy to carry, and have decided to shelve the ship subsidy bill recently passed by the Senate. Two plans are proposed. One is to allow the bill to die quietly, and the other is to report it back with a motion to proceed to its consideration in December next. The result of either plan will be the same, as the subsidy bill will not be considered at this session, and that means practically that it will not be passed by the present Congress, as the second session, which meets the first Monday in December next, will expire by operation of law the fourth day of March next, leaving but three months, including Sundays, Christmas holidays and the numerous other days when Congress will not be in session. The impending congressional elections is believed to be one cause for lightening ship and revising a bad record.

The latest summing up of the cost of the Boer war, with a "broad tax" impending and an increase of the income tax, by the chancellor of the exchequer, is not likely to rest easy on the financial stomach of the British people. By the chancellor's own figures the war has already cost $825,170,000; the coming year will add $225,000,000, besides $92,000,000 for gratuities to the soldiers and for bringing them home—if they can be brought home so soon. Englishmen estimate the indirect cost at $150,000,000 and the Boer peace proposals may call for another $50,000,000 for restocking farms, etc. Altogether there will be a total of not less than $1,540,000,000, and it is certainly the most expensive war in British annals.

American farmer in the corn belt worse than a drouth. The estimate is that the American producer will be compelled by the course of trade to pay at least one-half the war tax levied on breadstuffs sent to England. It is also alleged that there is something behind the tax, and that it is to form the basis of differential duties favoring the British colonies, which are clamorous for favors of the kind which were not possible because England imposed no customs taxes on breadstuffs.

A LESSON IN COURAGE

[Original.]
One evening while a party of students in one of our large universities were at supper the conversation turned upon courage. McCracken, who took great interest in military matters and was a lieutenant in a militia regiment, asserted that unless a man were constitutionally cowardly he would not feel fear under any circumstances. Scovill, who belonged to that class, the sophomores, whose members consider it an inherited duty to keep the college in an uproar, declared that discretion was the better part of valor and if a man got into a tight fix it was better for him to yield gracefully than to fight senselessly.

"That's nothing less than cowardice," said McCracken.
"Then we would all better be cowards at times," replied Scovill. "If a man were to send me word that he was going to shoot me on sight, I'd send back word that I hoped he would not see me."

"I should tell him that I would be prepared for him," said McCracken.
"Do you mean to say," pursued Scovill, "that if you cringed to a man who had the drop on you you would be a coward?"

"That's my conviction," said the other, twirling a young mustache resolutely.
"Then you'll prove yourself a coward some day, you may bet your boots."

"That remains to be seen."
With this the speaker left the party to go to the regular Wednesday evening drill at the armory.

"I tell you what, fellows," said Scovill, "I have a mind to prove Mack a coward on his own theory."
"Try it," said several students.
"Very well," replied Scovill. "I'll do it."

"When?"
"As to that I'll let you know hereafter. In the meantime I'll do a job of thinking on it."

In the university grounds was an old plaster cast of Washington that had been there from time immemorial. In going from his room to the armory McCracken was obliged to pass this statue. One Wednesday evening between dusk and darkness he was hurrying over his accustomed walk, for he was a trifle behind time, when he came face to face with the statue standing silent and rigid in the waning light. Suddenly the Father of His Country, in a tone that was evidently meant to be obeyed, called "Halt!" At the same time the right arm was raised from the side, a revolver grasped in the hand.

McCracken stood still as suddenly as if he had run up against a stone wall.
"Throw up your hands!"
The order was obeyed with alacrity.

"Right face!"
By this time McCracken's equivoque had somewhat reassured itself, and he did not obey the order. A bullet sang disagreeably near to his ear. Not taking note of the fact that the bullet passed quicker than he could act, he involuntarily ducked.

"Right face!"
This time the lieutenant turned on his heels without waiting for another bullet, which might possibly hit him.
"Forward, march! Halt! About face!" To the rear, march! Halt! Front face!"

The lieutenant obeyed these orders with minute exactness. Once during the drill, thinking that it might be a student's joke, he again stood still when ordered to march, but another bullet coming closer than the first, admonished him that if a joke it was a serious one. It was certainly amusing, this drilling of an officer of the national guard by the statue of General George Washington, but McCracken saw nothing in it to move his visible muscles in the slightest degree.

Indeed he was quaking lest he should make some blunder and the general shoot him down on the spot. Finally the drillmaster directed the lieutenant to stoop and perform the "ducks' march," which he did, not daring to lower his hands. There was a snicker behind a bush, another behind a tree, which, acting like a lighted fuse on gunpowder, brought about an explosion of laughter from every surrounding hiding place. Then the general's threatening arm fell to its proper place and Scovill stepped down from behind the statue. At the same time a dozen students emerged from behind trees, bushes and other available screens.

"Well, Mack, what do you think of your theory now?" asked Scovill.
"I think my theory is all rot."
"I'm glad of that. We don't want to consider you a coward. Any of us would have obeyed under similar circumstances."

"But how did you work the statue?" asked McCracken.
"This white shere was all that was needed." And Scovill pulled off a cotton sleeve cut the same shape as the general's Continental uniform coat.

"Hays, meet me at the Beefsteak next drink, and I'll blow you off to a supper."

"That's provided for, but we'll be there."

"That night a private room at the Beefsteak rang with 'Contra, bandled fill the blowing howl!' and other such stirring songs. McCracken was the worst of the party. He had been taught a lesson, but to learn lessons, not only from books, but from association, was what he was at college for. He is now with the army in the Philippines, doing good service.

It is enough to say that I suffered, was nearly helpless and could get nothing to help until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Crayton Bros' drug store. I happened to read in one of the local papers something pertaining to them. I went there and obtained some. I was much surprised at the quickness of the relief they gave me and I have told lots of other people about them."

BIG CIRCUS COMING

The Great Wallace Big Amusement Enterprise Will Exhibit in Newark on May 3rd.

The toterunners of the Great Wallace show have made numerous preparations for the coming of that show to Newark on Saturday, May 3.

From now until that date a large portion of our juvenile citizens, with the same proportion of the older ones will be anticipating with much satisfaction the promised visit of the Wallace show.

In front of the circus ring and in the presence of the sawdust and action, and within the hearing of a great symphony band, politics are laid aside, creeds are shelved, cares are shitted and kings and queens of society and of business affairs touch elbows with the professional and laboring man.

A big circus like the Wallace show brings all kinds of people on a level, for one day at least.

The time was when people did not study closely the advertising of a circus. This has been changed. During the interim between today and the date of exhibition here every piece of advertising of the Great Wallace Show and every announcement it may make will be closely read; and the readers will not feel as if they are reading fiction or bad promises, but will treat the matter as pertaining to the Wallace Circus as a matter of news and information as it is universally known that the Great Wallace Circus produces all it advertises and instead of advertising more than it has, it is reputed to produce more than it advertises.

It is with pleasure that we announce the early visit of a show of the magnitude and the character of the Great Wallace shows to be in Newark on Saturday, May 3.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

The House Mother.
The good mother who looketh well to the ways of her household must not only be a good cook, but a good caterer. She must know how to purchase food so that it will be the most economical and the best in its season, and she must know how to cook it so that there will be the least waste of food value. She must provide food suitable to the physical needs of each of her family, individually as well as collectively. It is no small task that the provider of food for the household undertakes.

The more refined the type of the individual the more careful he must be in the selection of his food. Only the grossest and lowest animals eat whatever is given them. There is more animalism in eating with satisfaction a heavy dinner of many courses, badly cooked and second rate in quality, and imagining because it is elaborate you have dined well than there is in that fastidiousness in regard to food which the epicure shows. The term epicure should not be one of reproach, yet it often is, even to those who should remember there is only one animal in the farmyard who does not select his food, but eats promiscuously whatever is thrown to him.

There is a certain class of housekeepers who seem to think their families should be served in regard to food with no greater care than the poor pig. They boast that they "eat to live." The highest and most intellectual life requires a body in the most perfect physical condition. The food must meet the requirements of the body. Badly cooked and badly selected food causes the great majority of ills to which human nature is heir. Most diseases may be traced back to malnutrition or the consumption of food which has failed to do its duty as food.—New York Tribune.

Ingenious Handle.
Something rather ingenious in the way of a detachable dipper handle is the invention of Jesse Carpenter of Muncie, Ind. It is made of a single piece of wire which is so bent as to form a sort of spring loop. With its aid empty cylindrical cans may be utilized for dippers or even for cooking vessels, and such cans, which are generally regarded as useless, may thus be made to serve useful purposes. While the loop holds the receptacle in a tight grip, a couple of elbows made by bending the two ends of it assist in making the grasp secure, these being inserted beneath the edges of the can.

For Porch and Den.
A good filling for pillows designed for porch use is made by cutting excelsior very fine. Chicken feathers mixed with small bits of cotton make a good filling for sofa pillows. The cotton keeps the feathers from packing. The silky substance found in the pod of the milkweed also makes an excellent filling for these cushions. This may be kept light and downy by an occasional warming and shaking.

Carriage scrub is being utilized for drapery purposes by artistic people on account of its effectiveness and its cheapness. It is to be had in shops where carriage furnishings are sold. In a soft shade of brown this material has been employed for drapery purposes in a "den" in a local home. The curtains are edged with large turquoise blue beads sewed on about an inch apart. At the sides is a border of drawn work.

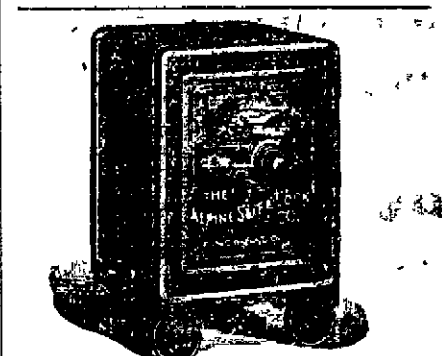

Summer Pillows.
It is easy to rip the side seams of a delicate or gorgeous pillow covering and carefully pull the pillow through the opening. Shake the dust from the elaborate cases and lay them away where neither flies nor sun nor rust can find them. The cost is very small of material which in summer is grateful to the touch and inviting to the eye, and it is little trouble to sew up squares or oblongs to fit your pillows, and surely appreciation of such cushions, so quiet in color and cool to the touch, will be expressed by their popularity. The best material for this purpose is the linen which is commonly used for furniture covering. Remember that in warm weather more comfort is to be had from a pillow which is not too soft. So make your summer coverings quite a bit smaller than the down pillows.

A Nice Vegetable Stew.
To make a nice vegetable stew pick and wash very clean as much spinach as will make a dish, mince finely three small onions, pick and chop two handfuls of parsley, put all into a saucepan, with rather more than half a pint of gravy, a bit of butter dusted with flour, a little salt and pepper, cover the pan closely, stir it now and then and when the spinach is tender wash smooth. Serve it with slices of broiled ham or with sausages.

JAS. H. MONTGOMERY, M. D.

In a Carefully Prepared Article Recommends Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.

In a recent issue of the New York Magazine of Sanitation and Hygiene, the recognized authority on all matters pertaining to health, James H. Montgomery, M. D., says editorially: "After a careful investigation of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, a specific for kidney, liver and bladder troubles, rheumatism, dyspepsia and constipation with attendant ill, we are free to confess that a more meritorious medicine has never come under the examination of the chemical and medical experts of the New York Magazine of Sanitation and Hygiene. In fact, after the most searching tests and rigid inquiry into the record of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, it becomes a duty to recommend its use in unequivocal terms to every reader of this journal whose complaint comes within the list of ailments which this remedy is advertised to cure. We have obtained such overwhelming proof of the efficacy of this specific—have so satisfactorily demonstrated its curative powers through personal experiments—that a care for the interests of our readers leads us to call attention to its great value."

NO SESSION OF COMMON PLEAS

Contested Election Case in the Probate Court.

Results in Favor of Moses James—
Real Estate Transfers—News of the Courts.

There was no business in the Common Pleas Court today. Judge Seward will hold court tomorrow.

In James' Favor.

In the matter of the contest of La Fayette Bryant of the election of Moses Jones, for Marshal of the village of Granville, the case was tried in the Probate Court Tuesday morning. The jury found the facts against La Fayette Bryant; that he did not receive a majority of the legal votes cast at the election. The jury also found that those electors voting for Moses Jones intended to vote for Moses James, and thereupon decided that La Fayette Bryant was not elected Marshal of Granville and that Moses James was elected Marshal of the village at the April election.

A RIVER OF LAND.

Astonishing Amount of Earth That Flows Down the Mississippi.

"The capacity of the Mississippi for filling up canals and old channels is something awful," says John Swain in Albion's. "Government engineers have found that the amount of solid matter annually carried past Vicksburg in suspension is enough to make a block of earth 300 feet high and a mile square. Fifty feet off the top of this is spread around on the valley between here and the sea, and the rest goes out into the gulf of Mexico to build up more continent."

"Think what that means. Instead of a river of water this is a river of land. It would make a solid stream of earth five feet deep and nine feet wide, flowing night and day as fast as a man can walk, four miles an hour, all sliding down off the northern half of the country toward the sea. Year in, year out, that endless line of earth goes on. It would take a force of more than 50,000 men working in eight hour shifts to throw the dirt into the stream, supposing the river bed were rigid and an inexhaustible supply of dirt on the bank. It would make 25,000,000 wagon loads every year."

"But here—what are the use of such figures? Below Vicksburg—and above it, too, to an extent—we have the earth itself to speak for it. Except for the occasional fragments of the line of bluffs along the eastern edge below here which bob up at Fort Adams, at Natchez, at Grand Gulf, at Baton Rouge, at Port Hudson, there is nothing about the level of the high water river except the artificial levees. These are in places miles back, great earthen banks, sometimes thirty feet high or more, sodded and free from trees, which protect the wonderfully fertile region behind them."

"And all this level country which the river overflows and fertilizes is constantly increased by this river of dirt which the Mississippi brings down from the inner region, gathered all the way from the Rockies to the Alleghenies. Sometimes the river starts to eat away this land that it has made. In a single summer, if it will, it eats away half a mile of it out of some bend. It cuts it out sometimes an acre at a bite and takes with it forests, houses, levees and all else."

"The river is not a uniformly moving stream. One side or the middle moves swiftly; the other parts are still or sluggish. Sometimes even these run up stream. The swift part is the channel current and runs in the deepest sections. It makes crossings whenever driven off shore by a promontory. These crossings are dumping places for the surplus earth the river has picked up in the bend it is eating."

One of Field's Crazy Jokes.

In his biography of Eugene Field Slason Thompson says that shortly after the humorist's arrival in Chicago it occurred to him one bleak day in December that it was time the people knew there was a stranger in town.

So he arrayed himself in a long linen duster, buttoned up from knees to collar, put an old straw hat on his head and, taking a shabby book under one arm and a palm leaf fan in his hand, he marched all the way down Clark street, past the city hall, to the office. Everywhere along the route he was greeted with jeers or pitying words, as his appearance excited the mirth or commiseration of the passersby.

When he reached the entrance to the Daily News office, he was followed by a motley crowd of noisy urchins, whom he dismissed with a grimace and the cabalistic gesture with which Nicholas Kooran perplexed and repulsed Antony van Corlear from the battlement of the fortress on Rensselaerstein. Then, closing the door in their astonished faces, he mounted the two flights of stairs to the editorial rooms, where he recounted, with the glee of the boy he was in such things, the success of his joke.

Praise of Work Well Done.

Perhaps there is nothing else so productive of cheerful, helpful service as the expression of approval or praise of work well done, and yet there is nothing so grudgingly, so meagerly given by employers. Many of them seem to think that commendation is demoralizing and that the voicing of appreciation will lead to listlessness and the withdrawal of energy and interest. This evinces but a poor knowledge of human nature, which is always hungry for approbation. But how mistaken such views are is shown by the loyal and unstinted service given to those large minded men who treat their employees as members of a family committed to their care—Success.

Her Consolation.

At a confirmation at Strassburg the bishop asked of a pretty debutante the usual question of the Heidelberg catechism:

"What is your only consolation in life and death?"
The neophyte blushed and hesitated. The first question was repeated, and then she stammered out:
"The young shoemaker in the next street."—London Tit-Bits.

Wise at Last.

Stockton Bonds—Poor Lambie! He never could get on the right side of the market.

Cutten Kewpons—Oh, but he has been for the last three months or so. Stockton Bonds—Really? What? Cutten Kewpons—The outside. He's quit.—Philadelphia Press.

Adding the Weather.

"Brother Highmore, are you contributing anything for the benefit of the weather this year?"

"Yes, sir. I am having my washing done at a Chinese laundry."—Chicago Tribune.

SAND'S CONDITION VERY SERIOUS

FOURTEEN PRODUCING WELLS IN BURLINGTON.

Four Wells Being Drilled, Stakes Set for Six—Infirmary House Cleaning—County News.

Hebron, O., April 22.—Dr. J. G. Bower on Monday visited Alonzo Sands of Hebron, who was so terribly burned Sunday, and found him resting comparatively easily. The chances for his recovery are small, and even if he should survive his burns, he will be terribly crippled, the hands being so badly injured that he will lose the use of them.

The other members of the family, Darl and Katie Sands, are rapidly recovering.

HOUSE CLEANING BEGINS.

Union Station, O., April 22.—The house cleaning began at the County Infirmary this morning. Besides the regular spring house cleaning, Supt. Larason is having painting and papering done and the infirmary buildings will be in ship shape in about six weeks.

HOMER GAS WELLS.

Homer, Ohio, April 22.—The "City of Utica," with its famous gas field, has been all the talk by our neighbors and the city press for some time. Now we ignorant citizens of Homer and Burlington township would be pleased to know where they have their wells drilled or located in their "city" or in Washington township. The people of Burlington township are not boastful. We only have fourteen wells in our township, all producers. But we have men drilling at the present time at four wells and stakes driven for six other wells, all in Burlington township, one in the village limits and several within one mile of town, which, when completed, made just twenty-four wells in Burlington township. Where is the "City of Utica" gas field?

Mammoth Cave "For Rent."

The question as to who will be manager of the Mammoth cave property will be settled finally in June, says the Kansas City Star. If a decision favorable to a majority of the trustees, who want W. Scott Miller of Louisville to manage the property, is not secured in the Edmonson county circuit court, they will carry the case to the federal court and then to the United States supreme court. Mr. Blair has been advertising the cave "for rent" and it is understood, will fight the other three trustees to a finish.

AWFUL ULCERS.

Facial Sores and Blotches
a Sign of Blood Disease.

Such Troubles
Cured by Vinol.

The face that is blotched or covered with unsightly pimples is not only a source of mortification and annoyance but is dangerous.

Where such a condition exists there must be something radically wrong.

When such eruptions become worse and give place to ulcers the danger is, of course, enhanced. Ulcers frequently form first on any of the great vital organs, especially the stomach.

Won't you, if you suffer from any such blood impurities give us the opportunity of telling you how you can get rid of such ills safely and quickly. Our Vinol will help you.

This, we firmly believe, and the reason for our belief is that we have learned that Vinol in its mission of rebuilding the body and creating strength does as much in the way of purifying the blood as it does in creating new, healthy flesh tissue. In making the body strong and healthy it invigorates everyone of the great vital organs and enables them to properly perform their work.

Impurities of the blood are thus more quickly displaced by new health elements that are taken by the stomach from the food which by means of Vinol is fully assimilated.

"I wish to say a few words in praise of Vinol. For over a year I was severely troubled with ulcerated stomach which caused me much pain; for three months I could not eat any solid food. I became weak, tired and all run down and lost much flesh. Hearing of the great merit of Vinol, I bought a bottle, and after giving it a good trial, I feel better in every way, and must give all the praise to Vinol." MARY E. BRYANT, 21 Prescott Street, Mansfield, Ohio.

Remember our faith in Vinol is so strong that we sell it on a guarantee and will gladly refund to anyone the cost of the remedy who is not satisfied with the results obtained by its use.

CHAMP CLARK STORIES

Recollections of Humorous
Tales Heard In Congress.

Amos Cummings' Description of a Picturisque Figure From the Tar Heel State—Judge Linney's Dog Story, Virtues of Lubricating Oil—Why a Darky Stole the Ham—Like Silas Wegg—Queer Fact From History—A Spoilsman's Speech.

(Copyright, 1902, by Champ Clark.)

When congress adjourned March 4, 1901, the most picturesque Republican in the fifty-sixth congress retired to private life—Romulus Z. Linney of North Carolina. Linney is a poet, philosopher and statesman. Amos J. Cummings, a rare judge of men, says, "Judge Linney looks like a Virginian in the time of Patrick Henry."

Amos continues his description of the man: "Warning with his argument, the mountain congressman is bathed in perspiration. His shirt collar wets, and his wrists melt. In his gesticulations he swabs his face with his pocket handkerchief, adding emphasis to his argument by the very swabbing. His words well to his lips seemingly unbidden and are uttered with rapidity and precision. There are thunderstorms and vivid flashes of lightning in his speeches, but soft, tropical skies and golden sunsets follow them. Amid the atmosphere is idleness with sarcasm. He throws pictures upon the clouds—pictures that recall the pencil of Hogarth. Finally he winds up with a terse and masterly summing up, toppling it off with a quotation from either Shakespeare or the Bible, gathers up his papers and resumes his seat. Then the spell is broken. Members flock about him in congratulation, and the house regains its composure."

Amos' picture is absolutely true to nature. I think Judge Linney would like posterity to gaze upon his portrait as thus drawn by the cunning hand of the generous Tammany brave. Judge Linney was a private in the Confederate army and at Chancellorsville was filled so full of Union lead that he was honorably discharged from the service.

Linney's Dog Story.
In the debate on the apportionment bill Linney was talking about the suppression of the colored vote in North Carolina and the large Democratic vote, which he illustrated by the following remarkable dog story:

"I do not know any way in the world that they got them if they did not steal them, except by some sort of leger demain somewhat akin to a story that Captain Todd of Ashe county tells. He is one of the wisest men I ever saw, a man of immense intellect, but a little eccentric. He told me that he had a friend in his county who had invented some lubricating oil, he said he had a favorite dog that he called Truman. One morning he awoke, and old Truman was climbing the neighboring mountain, with his voice ringing out clear, strong and musical and seeming to him to fill the whole earth. Hearing the voice of the approaching bound, he ran to the path to see him go by. He passed him like a streak of greased lightning. The next time he came around he ran to the path, and as he passed poor old Truman was creeping along and had almost lost his voice, and the dog was three miles ahead. So he thought of his lubricating oil, and said he: 'My friend, I caught Truman and rubbed him all over, saturating him all over, with the oil and turned him loose. He climbed the mountain again with greater speed than ever and a full voice. When he came back, I went out to see him, and by the great horn spoon, he was three miles ahead of the fox.'"

This is a fine specimen of his style of oratory and was so rich and racy that all the members, even the southern Democrats themselves, made the rafters ring with their laughter.

A Queer Historical Fact.
Linney's capacious head is a sort of literary and historical 'old curiosity shop.' From it he draws scraps and illustrations ad libitum that make the members stare. Here is one of them in that same debate he said:

"There is one secret that the world has never found out, if I read right. It has never been known where the grave of Attila, the scourge of God and the king of the Huns, is. As history tells us, after the night that Attila took unto himself a beautiful wife, Idico, the next morning he got up dead. But the Huns adored him. They made for him a golden coffin; they incased that golden coffin in a silver one; they then incased that silver casket in an iron one. Their purpose was to give their king, their leader, the richest burial that had ever been given. They placed that casket in the hands of a few captives whom Attila had in his charge. They charged those captives with the delicate task of placing that casket, that rich casket, at a place and in a way so that it could never be known, promising them their ransom to wit, their liberation—should they execute this direction successfully."

"The poor captives bore away the golden casket and came back rejoicing, expecting to be liberated, but their tyrant masters slew them, and the fact as to where the grave of Attila is constitutes the world's secret, never, probably, to be known."

Linney's Negro Story.
A few minutes after that strange historical tale he told this negro story: "Gentlemen of the house, I was mighty poor once and am still poor. I had a big hog weighing 700 pounds, and a hungry negro stole a ham."

CHAMP CLARK.

went for him. As I was out of meat, I was bound to get it back. Finding the negro whom I knew to be the culprit, I said to him, 'How did you get it there?' He replied: 'Mr. Linney, you had better ask me why—I stole the ham. I was hungry; that is why.'"

Linney Follows Silas Wegg's Example.
Still further along he indulged in some philosophical reflections and, like Silas Wegg, dropped into poetry. He exclaimed: "The love of power! There is nothing like it under the sun. Interest, says one of the great judges of this country, degrades the character of a witness or impeaches him. If a man has an interest in a farm and is litigating about it, judges consider that fact. Interest, like infamy, impeaches. And there is no interest like the love of power and the ambition for office. In the play of 'King Henry VIII' Wolsey's standard of human excellence is too high—

"My robe
And my integrity to heaven is all."

Judge Linney as a Spoilsman.
During the Fifty-fifth congress in making a speech on the pension appropriations Judge Linney showed himself anything but a civil service advocate. He said:

"There is no way of maintaining a party organization except by giving your friends the offices. The late distinguished Judge Pearson of my state, the father of my colleague, once administered this rebuke to Judge Armfield, one of the best representatives of legal thought in our state. Judge Armfield had selected a witness from the camp of the enemy, and that witness had deceived him, and he asked for a new hearing upon the ground that the witness had deceived and betrayed him. The court declined to grant a new hearing, and Judge Pearson said, 'The man who goes to the camp of the enemy for a recruit and catches a traitor is not entitled to the respect or sympathy of this court.'"

A Student of History.

Linney is a student of the history and characters of antiquity. In the following excerpt from the "spoilsman" speech he illuminates the life of Aesop: "Public duties, like the manly toll that makes glorious a nation's life, cannot always be well performed by those possessing education and nothing else. Besides, it often happens that the best informed men, the men of deeds rather than those of pretensions, are those to whom an appointment to some important post operates as a sort of inspiration. Some of the greatest lives with which God has ever blessed this world were poor men, in the humblest walks of life, who would never think of appearing in the presence of the high places of science and literature—men like Aesop and President Lincoln, the one a slave, the other too poor to pay his expenses to Washington after the love and admiration of his fellow citizens had called him to the presidency."

"Aesop was born a slave at Ammonius, in Phrygia the Greater, about the year 623 B. C. His head was long, nose short and flat, lips thick, a humpback, dark complexion, a large belly and bowlegs. His still greater infirmity was that his speech was slow and inarticulate and very obscure. He was a slave, and when Zenos offered to sell him to a merchant the merchant burst into laughter, saying, 'Had I not been convinced by his voice, I should have taken him for a blown bladder.' This merchant, however, afterward, in Ephesus, offered three slaves for sale—Cantor, Grammaticus and Aesop. In order to sell his slaves well he dressed Cantor and Grammaticus in fine clothing; but, supposing that no art could improve Aesop, he dressed him in sackcloth.

Development of Aesop.
"The eminent philosopher, Xanthus, accompanied by his scholars, attended this slave market. Looking at the two fine looking slaves, he found the price marked upon Grammaticus to be 3,000 halfpence. The philosopher said, 'I will not buy a slave rated at so high a price.' But, finding the price of Aesop to be almost nothing, at the earnest solicitation of his scholars, who wanted a plaything, he bought Aesop, and the boys paid for him. The first question put to Aesop was, 'Of what place are you a native?' 'I am a negro,' said Aesop. 'Where were you born?' 'Of my mother.' 'I did not ask that,' said Xanthus, 'but what place were you born in?' 'My mother never informed me.' 'What can you perform?' 'Nothing,' replied Aesop.

"This was all a civil service examination could have brought out of Aesop. Yet after a few years' contact with the students of philosophy this inarticulate negro possessed both eloquence and education. Yes, in this deformed body was set the largest soul, within which the most refulgent gems glittered and sparkled far beyond anything the philosopher Xanthus or his scholars ever knew. What did it? Contact with others mainly. He could not stand a competitive examination and was bought to satisfy the curiosity of the school-boys."

Further on in the same speech Linney again used Judge Armfield to illustrate a point he was making against the irony of the civil service examination system. Here it is:

"Spelling is one of the requirements, and a man would have to spell properly according to the books before he could be admitted. Suppose that test was applied generally. Judge Armfield, one of the very best and ablest lawyers in my state, spells God with a 'J', and a little 'J' at that. Yet he is the leader of the best legal thought in that great state and this day the equal of any living American."

A Popular Orator.
Judge Linney has come to be a popular orator at the camps of the Grand Army of the Republic, which is another illustration of the great generosity of the American people. Our great civil war is over, thank the Lord!

GREAT FUTURE FOR THE B. & O.

LOREE'S UNIQUE POLICY BEING CLOSELY WATCHED.

The Day's News of Railway Men and Affairs of Local and General Interest.

Pittsburg, April 22.—This morning's Pittsburg Post says the following of the B. & O. railway:

The policy of President L. F. Loree in his management of the B. & O. property has been pretty clearly and definitely outlined in his recent work and talk. His deal with the Pittsburg & Lake Erie railroad for a through business between Cleveland and Washington and Baltimore was a wise move on his part, as the Erie Railroad with all its great terminals between Chicago and New York has never been able to teach Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia. The Erie agents at Chicago and other points will arrange to route a great deal of traffic via the B. & O. The Pittsburg & Lake Erie will be a great gainer, as they will have a 68 mile haul both ways in Cleveland and Baltimore business. Arrangements will be made with the Big Four to turn over business from St. Louis bound for Washington and Baltimore to the B. & O. at Columbus, and Cleveland. The Big Four never could get its share of Washington, D. C. and Philadelphia business as they had no direct connection. The Lake Shore has been in a great predicament so that the great coup of Loree in making an arrangement to get all this increased traffic for the B. & O. showed good generalship. Having its own Chicago line the B. & O. cannot expect to obtain much Lake Shore patronage out of Chicago for Washington, unless the company can manage to reciprocate in some way.

The arrangements already made and those possible of being made will give the B. & O. greatly increased traffic and revenue. The Pennsylvania will not oppose this. The Pennsylvania men who bought up B. & O. securities want these securities to earn money. They want to make the B. & O. a great system and selected L. F. Loree to build it up and improve its prospects. The plans which he prepared some time ago met with the approval of the men who own and control the road. Competition to stimulate energy and ambition among all the agents is to be continuous, and the Pennsylvania men will be left to fight for their share of the business against a greater B. & O. system under a strong organization.

New Lodge of Trainmen.
A new lodge of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen was installed at the Odd Fellows' temple, Sunday afternoon by M. J. Murphy. The lodge has about 85 members, employees of the Hooking Valley, T. & O. C. and C. & H. over which lines it will have special jurisdiction. The old lodge of the order in this city is so situated that all railroad men running into the city could not enjoy its benefits, hence the organization of the new lodge. In the evening a large meeting was held in the hall and a number of speeches were made.—Columbus Press.

G. A. R. Rates
Even at this early date the G. A. R. Posts all over the country are making arrangements for transportation to the National Encampment. There are indications of a large attendance this year on account of the fact that the encampment is to be held in Washington. A cent a mile to Washington with the same reduction to New York City has been authorized by the Central Passenger Association.

Mr. Maxwell's Position.
The many friends of Mr. M. S. Maxwell, son-in-law of T. J. Campbell of Oakwood avenue, this city, and who is now a resident of Boulder, Col., will be pleased to learn that he has accepted the lucrative position of cashier for the Pennsylvania Railroad company. Mr. Maxwell has been a resident of Colorado scarcely one year, and the fact that he has received the promotion over the heads of several of his fellow employees, is indicative of the high regard in which he is held by the company.

Blood Wine Cures About It In A Different Way—Begins at the Bottom—Removes the Cause.

"Blood Wine" cures Rheumatism and cures it quickly, thoroughly and permanently. It cures neuralgia, and all forms of aches and pains. Is not Rheumatism caused by uric acid in the blood? This everybody knows. To treat it you must have something to work directly on the blood, to filter it, cleanse and purify it, drive the uric acid out of it and make it so healthy that it or any other foreign matter will not return again. "Blood Wine" is a powerful blood remedy, hence an effective rheumatic cure. It contains no wine or opiates, but medicine of most extraordinary value. For Rheumatism "Blood Wine" never fails.

Mrs. T. Foster of Salem St., Providence, R. I., was saved from a life of suffering, and given back her health by using "Blood Wine." She says:

"I have used six bottles of 'Blood Wine' for rheumatism and backache, and feel it my duty to let you know what your medicine has done for me. I am completely cured and owe my recovery wholly to your 'Blood Wine.'"

MRS. ADDIE FLETCHER.

Mrs. Addie Fletcher of 22 Isabella St., Boston, Mass., has experienced a very wonderful cure of rheumatism of long standing. These are her words: "I think I ought to write you in regard to my experience with your valuable remedy. I have had rheumatism in my ankle so badly that I have been unable to walk for days at a time, and I was almost discouraged when 'Blood Wine' was recommended to me. I thought I would try one more medicine, and was delighted to find that I gained rapidly while taking one bottle, and now I find myself assured after taking four bottles. 'Blood Wine' is invaluable in my household and I heartily recommend it to all."

PEOPLE OF THE DAY

Stead as a Prophet. A sensation in the book world is William T. Stead's "Americanization of the World." Interest in this latest contribution to current literature is not lessened by the author's close connection with the late Cecil Rhodes, whose will provides for the education of American youth at Oxford. Mr. Stead says that the resentment which is held in England to the extension of American influence is entirely uncalculated for as the Americanization of the world is but the Anglicizing of the world at one remove. In the words of the gentleman himself, "There is no reason to resent the part the Americans are playing in fashioning the world in their image, which, after all, is substantially the image of ourselves." Of the American Declaration of Independence Mr. Stead in his book says, "It is the epitaph of our empire."

"Hub" Smith Decorated. Somewhere in the custody of the government is a handsome decoration which ought to sparkle upon the breast of Hubbard T. Smith, secretary of the United States commissioner to China and consular clerk of the United States. It was presented to him by the emperor of China, but he cannot accept it until congress grants him the necessary permission.

"Hub" Smith made an enviable name for himself as an official during the settlement of the Chinese troubles; but, after all, he will always be known to fame as the author of the song beginning—

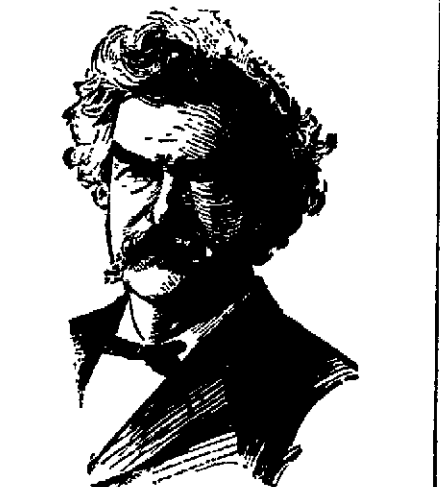

A little peach in an orchard grew:

Listen to my tale of woe.

That little tale of woe has been sung all over the world. Smith composed the music one Sunday afternoon while sitting at a piano in his bachelor home, Paradise Flats, Washington, after reading Eugene Field's poem, and he sold it to a local music dealer for a mere pittance. It caught on everywhere and for a time was the most popular song in the United States. Hundreds of thousands of copies were sold. Smith suddenly found himself famous. He wrote quite a number of other songs, including "Swinging in the Grapevine Swing," but the tale of woe will be remembered when all the others are forgotten. And this does not please Smith, for his other songs are much more meritorious productions.

An Innocent's New Home.

Samuel L. Clemens, known the world over as Mark Twain, the American humorist, has purchased Hill Crest, a mansion overlooking the Hudson, at Tarrytown, N. Y. The mansion house at Hill Crest contains thirteen large rooms. There are fine stables and a henry on the place, which consists of nineteen acres of as picturesque land as lies out of doors. The place was laid out and improved by Captain W. T. C.

SAMUEL L. CLEMENS.

sey, of whom Mr. Clemens purchased it. "I am in love with the spot," exclaimed Mark Twain as he stood upon a big rock in front of the house and held the Tappan Zee to the west and the valley of Sleepy Hollow, the land of Washington Irving, to the north. Michael Droogin is caretaker of Twain's new home in the owner's absence on a West Indian yachting trip.

Mr. Wellington's Instructions. During the spring floods Senator Wellington went down to the railroad station in Washington and took a sleeper for his home at Cumberland, Md. He did not know that the trains were likely to be laid off indefinitely and that schedules had been abandoned. Calling the porter, Mr. Wellington said, "Be sure and wake me up in time to get off at Cumberland," and then turned in.

When Mr. Wellington awoke the next morning, it was about 9 o'clock. After looking at his watch he raised the curtain and gazed at the surroundings. He soon realized that the train was still standing in the Washington station, just where it was when he boarded it. He hustled into his clothes and started for the porter. That functionary explained that he had carried out his instructions to the letter and that if the senator had quietly slept for another day or two he would have called him in ample time to get off at Cumberland.

FOR SPRING BRIDES.

The Custom of Wearing Flower Wreaths Comes in Again. (Special Correspondence.)

New York, April 21.—It is many a long day since we have seen a bride with a wreath of flowers all around her head like the one in the illustration. There have been topknots of all shapes and sizes, but now it would seem as if we were to return to the olden times, when the young maiden "wore a wreath of roses above her marble brow." I think this is a pretty innovation, and it is certainly calculated to sustain the veil better.

The chief novelty, however, in this bridal outfit is that there is a curiously shaped but effective lace application around the shoulders and down the front in the form of a front breadth, save that it is laid on the outside of the silk. The dress is made of the richest white peau de sole and has a train. At the sides are three boucans made of silk muslin, with chiffon ruchings. The waist is laid in stitched plaits in something like a blouse shape, and the sleeves are the new baggy things now so much affected, with lace cuffs.

The veil is of tulle, as are nine out of ten. The tulle is of lace, and while it is in some respects preferable, mainly because it is more costly, it is by no means as delicate and dainty, nor can such a veil be managed to cover the face and so add luster to its ethereal grace and beauty. The tulle veil down over the face is almost magical in its softening effects. That is just where the Turkish women gain their reputation for beauty, for no one sees them except through the meshes of a transparent white veil.

Last week I was at a wedding where the bride was determined not to be outdone by any one in point of a lovely wedding gown. She had the whole front of her dress embroidered with wax pearl beads done so closely and so artistically as to look like genuine jewels. The upper parts of the sleeves were made of a regular netting of pearls over chiffon, and the lower parts were of the chiffon in a wide baggy shape. The cuffs were of the beads in the netting pattern. There were two chiffon ruffles at the bottom of the skirts all around the front and side breadths, while the train was left quite plain, but with two chiffon ruffles under the edge in place of a balayuse. A great twisted rope of pearls was passed loosely around the waist to hold the fan of ivory and crepe lace.

Around the neck there was a necklace, which I will describe, since it is the latest and one which will be seen everywhere soon, since so many of the summer dresses will be made without collars, and these necklaces are intended to take their place. At the back there are two strings of small pearls twisted and clasped by one large pearl. In front the pearls are graduated and are larger as they approach the center. In the center of the front is one pearl pendant in pear shape. It is not necessary to hunt through several millions of oyster shells to find the proper shape, since the pearls are now made to order in sizes and shapes to suit. Black pearls are to be quite fashionable. Black pearls are really but smoke gray, but are called black by courtesy.

Such a necklace as I have mentioned can be purchased for about a dollar. Bracelets for evening wear and all other occasions where the sleeves will permit are made of pearls and all the other precious stones in their very clever imitations.

Earrings are to become fashionable again, and by a clever device they can appear to be fastened in the old way, when they are, in fact, just held to the ears by safety pins. Rings and chains of all kinds are studded with all sorts of stones, and so long as they are pretty and bright and ornament a costume what difference does it make?

Speaking of brides reminds me that all brides should have one fine tailored suit of light cloth among the outfit. For brides the light gray is probably the most refined choice, and these are really beautiful. OLIVE HARPER.

BASE BALL

..AND..

OTHER SPORTS.

The baseball season in the National League is now only a week old, and none of the teams are playing up to mid season form, but from the games thus far played it looks like Pittsburgh has a 25 to 1 chance of winning the pennant for the season of 1932. Indeed it does not seem to be anything but a walk over for the Pirates, and the real fight will probably be for second place. However, it is not certain that there will be a contest for this position in the race.

The laid on the National by the American League took from the former most of the stars of the game, Pittsburgh being the only team to remain intact. The other teams are practically unknown quantities, and are made up of youngsters drafted from the minor leagues. Should a fair proportion of these men, in any one team, "make good" that team has the best chance of finishing second to Fred Clarke's pennant winners. If more than one team develops unexpected strength, there may be a contest for the "place."

As was said before Newark followers of the game have always been loyal to the Cincinnati Reds, as the representatives of the Buckeye State in the major base ball organization. This was true even when Cleveland was in the National.

By a system of "syndicating" interests and managerial incompetency for the last few years Newark "fans" have become disgusted with the showing of the Cincinnati team. This year the team appears to be one of the weakest in the league, but ante-season form was such, that their championship work is no disappointment. They were met and defeated during the preliminary exhibition series by teams from American Association including Columbus, Indianapolis and Milwaukee, and opened the season with a defeat at the hands of Seale's Chicago. The opening defeat was followed by two others. It was remarkable considering the showing of the team that 13,000 people saw the game last Sunday.

Speaking of Columbus, Jack Grim, the famous ex-Brooklynite, has gotten together a bunch of hustlers in the Buckeye capital, that will bear watching in the American Association. The team is well balanced, intelligently managed and the players are young and ambitious. Newark people will attend the Sunday games in Columbus this season in force, and they will see the best base ball that Columbus has produced since the old Association days.

It may here be said, that Columbus will patronize winning base ball, and it is asserted that Grim has now almost cleared his season's expenses. There is certainly none of the shares of $10,000 worth of stock in the club for sale now. This stock is said to be held by 145 different persons.

Sporting Notes.

A decision of wide spread interest was handed down Monday by the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, which is a solar plexus blow to the new American League.

Napoleon La Joie probably the greatest base ball player in the world, last year jumped a contract with the Philadelphia National League team, which had a clause in it, reserving the right to his services. He contended that the reservation clause was invalid and played last season with the Philadelphia American League team, and was to have played second base for them this season.

The Philadelphia National sought to enjoin him, but the Common Pleas Court held the reserve clause invalid and gave La Joie the liberty to play where he pleased.

The Supreme Court reversed this decision, and the bill enjoining the player is reinstated.

The Boston National will apply for injunctions against the players who jumped contracts, and other clubs will probably follow. The players affected are:

Cleveland is to have Sunday base ball. The police have declared they will not interfere with Sunday games outside the city limits.

Chicago—Garvin, Sullivan, E. McFarland, Daly, Strang, Davis, Green, Jones.

Baltimore—Hughes, Robinson, McGinty, McGraw, Kelly, McGann, Seibach, Seymour.

Philadelphia—La Joie, Fraser, Bernhard, Dugglesby, Lave Cross, Monte Cross, Hartsell, Flick.

Cleveland—Schreckengost, Bradley, McCarthy.

Detroit—Mercer, Miller, Gleason, Holmes, Barrett, McGuire.

St. Louis—Powell, Harper, Sudhoff, Padden, Wallace, Burkett, Heidrick.

Washington—Orth, Carriek, Town sent, Wolverton, Delehanty, Keister.

Boston—Young, Dineen, Warner, Collins, Hickman, Stahl, Freeman.

A Scripps-McRae telegram to the Advocate this noon from Washington, says: Manager Loftus of the Washington team, asserts that he is not in the least cast down over the Pennsylvania supreme court's decision declaring that the national League players who jumped to the American League must return to their first love. The Senators affected, all assert that, come what may, they will not return to the Phillies. They intimate that they will carefully keep out of the jurisdiction of the Penna. courts. A hot fight is expected with the result in doubt.

Mathewson, the young collegian who made such a great record with New York last season, is duplicating his work so far this season. Monday he held Boston down to 5 hits and struck out 7 of the "Dean Eaters." He was a little wild in the sixth inning when Boston scored all her runs.

The Pittsburgh players have formed a pool of $10,000 to cover Frank De Hass Robinson's offered wager, that Pittsburgh will not again win the pennant.

Hughey McGovern, Terry's brother, fought 19 rounds to a draw with Frank McClosky, near Pittsburgh, Monday.

The decision of im Hurst started a riot which the police had to quell. During the excitement pickpockets cleared up about $500.

Bob Fitzsimmons has posted a $2500 forfeit to bind a match with Champion Jeffries, leaving all the details to the latter. This practically clinches the match.

Mike Schreck received the decision over John Duncer, colored of Covington, in a 15 round battle, at the opening of the Admiral Athletic Club, in Cincinnati, Monday night.

THE MEADOW ORCHID

WHY THE RUSSIAN PEOPLE CALL IT "THE CUCKOO'S TEARS."

A Legend of the Land of the Cuckoo That Deals With Magic, Love and Happiness and One Result of the Fatal Feminine Tongue.

One warm Sunday afternoon the village maidens assembled to bathe in the river. They took off their kerchiefs and their coronet headresses, seated themselves on the bank to cool off and began to gossip. One maiden alone sat silent, Prosyra, an orphan, poor, but beautiful, with fair skin and eyes as blue as the gentian, which the Russians call "the flight of the falcon." So the other girls began to tease her: "Have you no dearly beloved friend, Prosyra? Who is he, where is he? Is he handsome, is he rich?"

"Where should a poor girl get a rich and handsome young lover? Yonder adder is my husband."

No sooner had she said this than all the maidens cried, with one accord, "The adder!" and took to their heels. And upon her kerchief, which Prosyra had thrown upon the grass, behold, a huge black adder lay coiled. She cried out in fear. But the adder beat its tail upon the ground and was transformed into a wonderfully handsome young man. There he stood before her, with a golden cap upon his flowing curls, his eyes flashing fire, and honeyed words fell from his lips. And he said to her: "Did you mean it when you declared that you were ready to marry the adder?"

She knew not what reply to make, but gazed at him and thought to herself, "Whence came such a wise and handsome youth?" And he, divining her thoughts, replied to them, "I am no common man, but the czar of the waters, and my empire is close at hand in a deep pool on golden sands."

And he read in her eyes that she consented to go with him. Then he grasped her with his powerful hand, and together they sank down into the deep realm of the waters.

Great was Prosyra's happiness. She could not believe in it. He was so good, so wise; she had never seen such people, and there is none such anywhere as the czar of the waters. But Prosyra was foolish. Seven years did she dwell with him in the deep pool in his palace of crystal, and the seven years passed as one day, and there need not have been any end to her bliss. A girl and a boy had been born to them. Then, all at once, without any cause, she became sad, longed for the earth, to behold her native hamlet and her friends once more. So he let her go, with the children, for three days after having exacted a promise that neither she nor the children, either by word or by hint, should reveal the name of her husband or where she lived. And all this she promised, with fearful oaths. Then her husband escorted her to the dam. At the end of three days she was to come to the same spot and cry "Cuckoo!" thrice, whereupon he would swim at once to meet her.

She kept her oath, but her friends teased and questioned the children. The boy to all queries replied simply, "I don't know." But the girl told everything. This was all the envious gossips wanted. They ran and told all to their husbands and brothers, who immediately ran to the dam and uttered the magic words. And when the czar appeared they beat him to death. But before he died he contrived to say to Prosyra: "I have to thank thee, my dear wife, that I am now come to my death through thee and my daughter. Henceforth fly thou ever as a gray cuckoo and repeat thou ever my call, 'Cuckoo!' in sadness of heart from early spring until St. Peter's day (St. Peter's day, June 29 (July 12, O. S.)), and from that day forth may every bird, both great and small, beat thee and pursue thee. And mayest thou, my daughter, my betrayer, be turned into a nettle bush, and may that weed, the fiery, forever burn thine eyes wheresoever thou mayest be, that thou mayest weep forever, remembering thy father's death. But to my loyal son, who kept his father's command, I make this bequest: That he shall be the bird beloved which dwells and sings in gardens and amid shady groves for the joy of happy people for the consolation of those who weep, the nightingale."

And from that day forth the Russian people have called the meadow orchid "the cuckoo's tears." (It is also known as "the cuckoo's slippers.")—Isabel F. Haggood in New York Post.

A Way Out.

A small girl told a falsehood. Her mother, with great dignity, led the youthful offender to the library and, sitting down beside her, said: "You know, Katharine, grandma has gone to heaven and papa has gone to heaven, but if you tell untruths you cannot go to heaven with them. You will have to go to the other place."

The little maiden looked very grave for a moment and said, "Say a swear word, mamma, and come to the other place too."—New York Tribune.

The Better Choice.

"No, my dear baron," was the reply. "I will make ze proposal to her milliner."—Judge.

Will you give Paine's Celery Compound the fair and honest testing that others are giving it, with its certain reward of health, strength, vigor, or happiness, or will you remain indifferent and careless, content to pass your few days of weeks in misery, agony, and wretchedness until the dark grave claims you as its victim?

It is almost needless to enumerate the blessed results that flow from Paine's Celery Compound when used promptly in springtime and as you and your friends have a knowledge of them. Of this you may be assured, the seeds of disease are banished, the system is fortified, the blood is made red and pure, the nerves braced, digestion regulated, headaches, sideaches, and backaches forever dispelled, and sweet, restful sleep takes the place of insomnia.

NEW BILLIARD CUSHION.

Arrangement by Which the Edges are Stiffened and Protected.

A new arrangement has just been patented which promises to be duly appreciated by billiard and pool players throughout the country, says the New York Tribune. The patent has been allowed to a New York firm by the United States patent office. The new billiard cushion has a coiled wire inserted in the edge of the cushion, or the impact edge, as billiard players will recognize it.

The idea of the coiled wire is to stiffen the edge, and it is said to do this. Most billiard manufacturers use either canvas or hard rubber for this purpose, which in time becomes hard or carbonized, and in a year or two the cushion becomes "dead" and practically useless. It is said that the coiled wire principle will add more elasticity and resistance. The new idea will, it is said, also prevent the expansion of contraction so common in old time cushions.

CUBA'S FIRST LADY.

SHORT RANGE VIEW OF THE WIFE OF TOMAS ESTRADA PALMA.

The Possessor of a Rare Combination of Qualities, Sincerity, Generosity, High Ideals and Trust—Has Never Yet Seen Cuba.

(Special Correspondence.)

Central Valley, N. Y., April 21.—One of the most familiar figures on the streets of Central Valley is a little, quiet, fragile woman with raven hair and wonderfully dark eyes. For nineteen years she has lived here, unostentatious to a degree, ever shrinking from attracting public attention. A stranger would never imagine that in her he was looking at one who will soon be the first lady of Cuba, the wife of President Elect Tomas Estrada Palma.

She has never seen the island over whose destinies her husband will soon preside, but she is imbued with the greatest patriotic fervor, feels as keenly as he the joy that must come with the knowledge that the dream of his life has been fulfilled, that it is "Cuba libre" at last. The fact that she will soon occupy the highest position in a country among people who have the most profound respect for her position, that she will have a palace to live in and all the accompaniments of wealth and power appeal to her only inasmuch as they are involved in the one idea, the freedom of Cuba.

As in her husband, personal pride and vanity are singularly lacking in her. She seems to have none of the feminine weaknesses for display and dress. But she does possess dignity and as a result when she leaves this little town will take with her the best gowns that money can buy and will be prepared to occupy her rightful place. Until then she prefers to be the simple, unaffected woman she has always been.

Her ideas on this subject were very aptly put by her in a recent interview. Said she:

"It is not the thought that we are going to live in a palace that makes us glad. No; it is not that that makes us happy. It is knowing that, after all the trials, we are at last to have a country of our own."

Her patriotism is none the less real even though, as was said before, she has never seen her husband's native land. She is a daughter of Honduras, and her marriage to President Palma was the culmination of a very pretty romance.

After Palma had been released on parole from a Spanish prison, having promised not to return to Cuba, he went to Honduras as a teacher. While there he met the dark eyed daughter of President Guardia. His wooing was looked upon with favor. Preferment, too, came to Palma, for he was made postmaster general of Honduras. But one of those all too common revolutions broke out. Taking his bride with him, Palma fled the country and turned toward the friendly shores of Uncle Sam's domain, eventually settling in Central Valley.

Here he opened a school for Cuban and Central American boys, and here he and his wife continued to hope and plot for Cuba. The Palma home was a sort of headquarters for all the Cubans in America. All the great ones that have visited this country have been there at one time or another, and it has been said that the whole of the last revolution was planned there.

Mrs. Palma will take with her to her new home the attributes that are well calculated to make her successful as the helpmate of a president—sincerity, generosity, high ideals, common sense and above all tact.

WAX FIGURE OF A HERO

[Original]
"Where did you first meet your wife, Halstead?"
The question was asked by a guest of Austin Halstead after dinner, when the wives of the two men had retired to the drawing room and cigars were brought to the dining table. A smile passed over Halstead's face.
"That's a funny story," he said.
"Funny stories, especially about the first meeting of wives and husbands, are always interesting."
"I hadn't been out of the Naval academy a year and was as full of nonsense as the day I left Annapolis. Our ship was ordered to the Brooklyn navy yard for refitting, and, having a good deal of time on my hands, I spent it in New York. I found the Eden Musee a good place to get away with an afternoon and spent not only one but several there. One day I was in uniform at the time, having been ordered on some official duty in New York connected with the ship—I strolled into the show of wax figures along with one of our fellows, Tom Anderson. Tom was on leave and in mufti. We went through the place and sat on a wooden settee to rest and watch the people. A friend of Tom's went by, and Tom left me temporarily to go to speak to him.
"I noticed that several persons looked at me scrutinizingly, suspecting that since I was in uniform I might be a wax figure of some great naval hero, but as soon as they perceived that I was merely a real live middy they lost interest in me and passed on. Presently I saw coming a young girl of sixteen, whose dresses had not been let down to the length for women, in the care of a French maid. She was one of the piquant kind, full of animation. This was evidently her first visit to the show, and she was intensely interested in everything she saw. She gave me an inquiring glance, then asked her maid in French whether I was flesh and blood or wax. Not getting a satisfactory reply, she came nearer and fixed her sparkling black eyes upon me.
"Of course it was a mean thing to do, but what can you expect from a youngster who has also the disadvantage of being a sailor ashore? I looked straight before me. Tom Anderson was standing at a little distance, talking with his friend, and saw the girl trying to make me out. He smiled and called his friend's attention to the pantomime. Tom had as much devilry in him as I and was equally culpable. Tipping the wink to his companions, he led the way toward me.
"Did you ever see Admiral Farragut as a young man?" he said, loud enough to be heard by the girl. "Here he is just as he was at twenty-one."
"The two stood before me while I stared at vacancy. The girl drew near to hear all about the great admiral.
"This waxwork," Tom continued, "was made after photographs taken at the time."
"This was such a palpable lie that I found it difficult to retain my gravity. When Farragut was twenty-one, photography was unknown. Besides, the uniform was then very different. But these facts had no effect on the girl.
"No one would suppose," said Tom, "that the great naval hero could have been such a miserable looking specimen of humanity in his early days. Look at that nose. Did you ever see such a proboscis?"
"I think he was very handsome," said the girl to her maid indignantly.
"Then his hands—big enough for a No. 10 glove. And his feet—they'd cover the quarter deck of a line-of-battle ship."
The girl tossed her head and turned her back on the speaker. How I ever retained my gravity I don't know. I remember that I felt a horror of laughing, for it would have revealed a terrible slight upon the young girl. I had already had enough of the joke and wished that Tom would go away and the girl would pass on without knowing how we had fooled her. When she looked away for a moment I gave Tom an appealing look, which he understood and drew his friend to another curiosity.
"As soon as they had gone the girl entered upon an animated dialogue with her maid, in which the former did nearly all the talking.
"Those men ought to be ashamed of themselves to talk that way. We're been studying about Admiral Farragut at school, and it's a disrespect to speak so even about his wax figure. I think he was lovely."
"My heart melted more and more to my charming defender, and I was becoming dreadfully ashamed of my deception. The maintaining of a fixed position was tiresome, but I would rather die than reveal myself.
"I don't see," the girl remarked, "how it is possible to make wax look so lifelike. See the color in the cheeks, the veins. Those eyes can't be glass. I wonder if he is a wax figure after all!"
At this juncture a fly lighted on my nose and made my position intolerable. The girl came very near and examined me critically. Then she raised her finger and touched me on the cheek. This was too much. I broke into a smile and said as kindly as I could: "Mademoiselle, you have made a mistake."
"Oh, goody gracious!" she gasped, drawing away as from red-hot iron.
"I would have apologized, but she turned and ran away as fast as she could go, followed by her maid."
"And the second time you met?" asked the dinner guest.
"Oh, that was three years later at a ball on board the flagship. She recognized me and laughed at the incident. I fell in love with her, and we were married. But there's nothing funny about that." F. A. MITCHELL.

KNOCKED DOWN

While Riding His Bicycle Around the Public Square—John Simmons Was Badly Hurt.

A bad accident and one which at first was thought to have resulted seriously to the victim, occurred at the Newkirk corner, corner of West Main street and West Park place, about 8 o'clock on Monday evening. A man, whose name was not learned, came driving down West Main street, and in turning the corner south on West Park place, collided with John Simmons, a young man employed by Haag & Thompson, the well known wagon makers and blacksmiths, who was riding his wheel. Mr. Simmons seeing that a collision was imminent, turned into the curbing, but the driver of the horse also turned in towards the curbing, the result being that the horse struck the wheel with great force. Mr. Simmons was thrown from his wheel under the feet of the horse, and in attempting to arise was struck over the heart by one of the hoofs of the animal and knocked down again. One of the wheels of the buggy ran across his abdomen, and there was a general mixup of the horse, man and wheel. The driver of the horse did not stop to investigate or inquire how badly Simmons had been injured, but drove rapidly down the street. He was followed by a large crowd of people who had witnessed the accident. The man seeing that he was being followed then came back, but as soon as possible drove away again without giving his name.

The injured man was then carried into C. T. Bricker's drug store, where he was attended to by Dr. Knauss, of which he was taken to this home of Mr. J. W. Thompson, on South Second street in Bradley & Boker's ambulance. He is able to be around however, today, although he is feeling very sore.

UNFIT FOR THE STOMACH
Indifference and Carelessness Lead to Physical Shipwreck and the Grave.

A large per cent of housewives have the faculty of preparing a dainty and palatable meal, but how few there are who really understand the science of preparing the food in a digestible manner?

Take for instance the simplest item on the bill of fare, the breakfast food. Usually a little water is poured over the oatmeal to boil for a few moments and then served as done.

When prepared in this manner the cereal abounds in starch, causing stomach and bowel disorders and its continued use will wreck the strongest system.

Cook oatmeal and other cereals five hours if you would have them fit for the stomach.

A safe plan to follow is to eat some ready-to-serve breakfast food.

After much experimenting a food expert has been able to combine heat-digested cereals with the emulsified oil of nuts into a ready-to-serve breakfast food, which he calls Malt-Nut.

This new combination contains the brain and muscle properties of the grains and the tissues and fat-forming elements of the nut oils, making a food with a delicious nut flavor and four times the nutrition of beef.

Malt-Nut is ready to serve. A few teaspoonfuls with the addition of half milk and cream, makes a delicious meal at a cost of about one cent a person. It is sold by grocers everywhere.

BIRTHPLACE OF GENIUS.

Brookville, Ind., Where Many Distinguished Men Were Born.

[Special Correspondence.]
Brookville, Ind., April 22.—This is not a large town. Indeed its population is only a trifle over 2,000, as recorded by the twelfth census, yet a greater number of distinguished men have undoubtedly been born here than has fallen to the lot of any other village of relative size in the United States.
In the list of Brookville's gifts to the world of genius are governors of states, United States senators, generals of the army and high officers of the navy, men of letters whose works are read wherever the English language is spoken, one of the world's most famous engineers and a great painter and sculptor, besides scores of other men of prominence.

Eight governors first saw the light in this little town, their birthplaces being within easy call of each other. Four of these—Ray, Noble, Wallace and Hammond—served their own state, while the others attained gubernatorial honors in other commonwealths. These were Governors Wallis of Idaho, Harding of Utah, St. John of Kansas and Lew Wallace, who was territorial governor of New Mexico.

The United States senators born here were Noah Noble, a member of one of the leading families of southern Indiana, and Jesse R. Thomas, who was the author of the famous "Missouri compromise."

There is still standing on the outskirts of the town, though now in ruins, an old log cabin, in which was born General Ambrose E. Burnside, who was commander of the Army of the Potomac during a portion of the civil war. Other generals born in Brookville were Lew Wallace, Pleasant Adam Hackleman and Francis A. Shoup, the latter serving in the Confederate army.

Of naval heroes Brookville can boast of Rear Admiral Oliver H. Glisson and Captain William Lewis Herndon. The former attained distinction in the Mexican war as commander of the Reeler and later held many important posts in the navy, retiring under the age limit about twenty years ago. The country yet remembers the heroic death of Captain Herndon, who in 1858 off the coast of Cuba offered up his life as a voluntary sacrifice that others might be saved, and nowhere is that memory greener than in his old home.

A daughter of Captain Herndon born here became the wife of Chester A. Arthur, who was afterward president of the United States, though she did not live to become mistress of the White House.

Hiram B. Power, the painter and sculptor, who has attained worldwide fame, was born in a log cabin overlooking the White Water river, and many are the stories still told in Brookville of the wonderful images he fashioned from the clay of the river bank at an age when other children were engaged in the mud pie industry.

Here also was born James B. Eads, who ranks as one of the world's greatest engineers. There are no traditions, however, that the principles of cantilever bridges and jetties disturbed his youthful imagination.

It is perhaps Brookville's proudest distinction that her kindly environs cradled the infancy of Joaquin Miller, the "good gray poet of the Sierras," Maurice Thompson, made famous by "Alice of Old Vincennes," and Lew Wallace, whose "Ben-Hur" has been more widely read than almost any other novel written in recent years.

The birthplaces of some of Brookville's distinguished sons are still standing and are pointed out with pride by the villagers. Some are in ruins, and others have wholly passed away. There still stands, however, the old academy where the embryo statesmen, soldiers and men of letters and arts first went to school, though it is now occupied as a private residence. According to tradition, not all these great men were models of propriety in their youth. It is related that it was the regular programme for several years to open the school with prayer and then thrash Lew Wallace, Jim Eads and Maurice Thompson.

One of the conspicuous landmarks still remaining in Brookville is the old "Yellow Tavern," where in former days many of the prominent men of the town new-wet clinked glasses as they discussed the affairs of state and nation.

LEONARD BALDWIN.

Jonas Roe who was sent up to the penitentiary last November to serve a year for shooting at his wife with intent to wound, was recommended for a pardon by the State Board and will probably soon be released.

Roe's case aroused more than professional interest and pride in his attorney, S. L. James, and although there was no pecuniary reward for him, Mr. James at his own expense, pushed the case and finally brought it to the attention of the Pardon Board with the result of favorable action.
